

Women Giving as One

Impact100 Comes to Denver!

We are excited to announce that Impact100 has come to Metro Denver! Impact100 is an amazing opportunity for great women to combine resources and make a significant impact in our community.

JOIN US!

By bringing together 100 women who each make a donation of $1,000, we are able to impact transformational change in our community.

Impact100 Metro Denver engages the power of collective decision-making and grant-making. Bringing together women in our community, we can together do something truly remarkable: give a gift of $100,000 to a non-profit organization in our local area.

- ✓ 100% of Your Donation Benefits the Grantee
- ✓ Participate at the Level You Desire
- ✓ Meet Other Great Women, Make New Friends
- ✓ Your Vote Counts on the Local Recipient

Meet Impact100 Metro Denver's Steering Committee!

Cathy Murphy, Co-Founder. Cathy and her husband lived in Denver for over 20 years before moving to San Francisco for an equal duration. They always knew they would return to Colorado and are happy to be here, living in Lone Tree, in the land of sunshine, blue sky, family and friends. Cathy owned and operated a successful senior care business and found her work there incredibly rewarding and fulfilling. In this newest phase of her life, as a co-founder of Impact100 Metro Denver, Cathy has a clear mission to work within a group of committed women to learn more about, and to address, the needs of our community.

Pat Wynne, Co-Founder. After almost 30 years in the software industry, Pat retired in 2008, left the Bay Area and moved back to Denver where she had raised her three children. Pat lives in Cherry Creek and spends her time playing tennis, hiking, serving on the WorldDenver board, traveling, and "grandmothering". She has lived in four different countries for short periods of time and believes that the most informed philanthropy begins at home. She is delighted to be part of this growing community of like-minded, caring women.

Joan Brennan, Treasurer. In Denver since in 2002, Joan built upon her professional experience in finance and non-profit management by connecting with Metro Denver youth development agencies. She has served on numerous non-profit boards in Denver and is currently on the boards of 'Denver Kids' and the 'Colorado Mentoring Partnership'. Joan was honored in 2013 with the Outstanding Philanthropist award at the National Philanthropy Day in Colorado.

Tammie Pearson. Tammie has spent 25 years working as a senior executive in the financial services industry and is happy to now limit business travel so that she and her husband have more time to enjoy the great outdoors and the lovely little town of Parker, CO. Tammie joined Impact100 because she sees it as a great way to meet other impressive women, she is inspired by the enthusiasm and energy of the committee members, and she is excited to see the impact that this group of women will have on the local community.

Mimi Erving Humenik. In the Denver area for almost 10 years, Mimi loves and feels fully 'at home' in Denver with her two now grown children. Mimi has volunteered over the years in the children's schools and sports programs. Most recently, Mimi has focused more energy with Project C.U.R.E., helping to establish programs that connect local donors and recipients abroad, through her invaluable philanthro-travel journeys.

Beth McBride. After spending 30+ years in Educational Publishing, Beth retired as President of McGraw-Hill Professional Development. Although her career sent her to live in almost to every major US city, Beth decided to spend her retirement years in Denver and moved here in November, 2014. Living in Denver allows her time to enjoy her multiple siblings and their families. Participating in Impact100 Metro Denver allows her the opportunity to become involved and give back to her new community while getting to know interesting women who are also committed to making an impact in Metro Denver.

Michelle Myers. Michelle has, in her profession, spent almost 20 years delivering strategy, HR and technology solutions to organizations. She and her husband, Craig, have been in Denver for 12 years and now live in Cherry Creek. When she is not working, she is 'living the Colorado dream' and is skiing, hiking, running, playing tennis and pilates. This is most valuable, as Michelle and her husband are also foodies and love most to enjoy all the amazing cuisine Denver has to offer.
